

Even if it's no longer a safety issue, I don't think that cell phones should be used aboard airborne aircraft. It's a confined space, where many people choose to sleep, read, meditate, and chat with fellow travelers. Cell phone conversations would be a huge intrusion on these activities. I, for one, object to being forced into listening to someone else's personal life. Please. Keep them turned off!